

DAN HARRISON

Executive Vice President, Strategic Program Planning
Fox Broadcasting Company

As Executive Vice President, Strategic Program Planning for Fox Broadcasting Company, Dan Harrison oversees all strategic program planning and scheduling, including series launches, sweeps events and the design and implementation of year-round programming operations, for the network.

Previously, Harrison served as Senior Vice President, Strategic Development at CBS Corporation and was responsible for identifying and implementing organic growth opportunities. Prior to that, he was Senior Vice President of the Emerging Networks Group at NBC Cable, where he launched and managed all aspects of various digital cable and mobile networks, including Sleuth, Chiller, Universal HD, NBC2Go and NBCNews2Go. Prior to that, Harrison held senior strategic program planning executive roles at Bravo Network, Fox Sports Group and NBC Entertainment.

No stranger to the Fox Entertainment family, Harrison began his career at Twentieth Century Fox Television syndication in the Creative Services Group and subsequently served as a programming analyst at Twentieth Television.

Harrison holds a B.A. in Economics from Cornell University as well as a J.D. from Harvard Law School, and is an accomplished writer.
